WIDOW SOBS STORY OF KILLING DEATH PENALTY IS DEMAND OF STATE

In Brooklyn where, apparently, they believe in progress, the extra-curricular activities of a high school have recently been explained to include a "personality analysis and fashion studio. The purpose of this somewhat startling innovation is, it seems, to make the average high school girl more conscious of the importance of being well dressed, well groomed and well mannered, which are held to be the ingredients of a "charming and attractive personality."

Certainly those are worthy objectives, but they shouldn't be confused with charm. It was Maggie in "Every Woman Knows" who said of charm: "It's sort of bloom on a woman. If you have it, you don't need to have anything else; and if you do not have it, it doesn't matter much what else you have. Some women, the few, have charm for all; and most have charm for one. But some have charm for none."

Nevertheless, there's a lot to be said for a neat appearance and good manners, even if they offer no guarantee that their possessor will automatically develop an irresistible allure. Parents of girls, and even boys, of high school age have been known to urge the advantage of such novelties.

Take the stand, Mr. Joseph Harris, veteran Utah barber, who contends that modern women prefer bearded men.

You say, Mr. Harris, that "freshly shaven men lack the masculine air of the heavy-bearded western type." What wild western type, Mr. Harris? The cowboy? From Cheyenne to Salinas, from Las Vegas to Pendleton, breathes there a hand with soul so dead that he doesn't shave them close every morning so that his whiskers won't frighten and stampede the Highland Herefords? You know the answer, Mr. Harris. There doesn't.

Could it be a sheriff? Ride into the Cimarron country then, or follow the old Chisholm Trail from Texas to Wyoming, and bring us back one dead or alive, that carries any more chin adornment than he wore as a yearling. The lumberjack? Tut, tut, Mr. Harris. For years we've been reading of how they shave their beards with a two-bitted ax and refine them with tallow candles.

That leaves only the desert sordough, and there you score one, Mr. Harris. Truly he wears a beard, but we know his type. If he ever draws near enough to civilization to spy a woman he flees with the light of death in his eyes and a longing for the great unpunctuated spaces in his heart. And as he goes, he's followed only by his patient jenny, braying contentedly because she sees in his chin whiskers something that reminds her of a bale of hay.

Possibly we should go one step of the way with Dr. D. P. Wilson, of Los Angeles, and assume that he isn't talking through his hat when he says a college woman is too full of details and ambitions to make a good wife.

Where do we go from there? Suppose we consider what college does to the incipient man-about-the-house. Either it loads him with ideals and ambitions, and thereby disqualifies him for dishwiping, mower-pushing and other requisites of a husband, or he comes through the shellacking process unscathed and teetotally unprepared for business responsibility and citizenship.

You see plainly where your proposition is leading, Doctor. We have little choice but to abandon the higher education, or abolish matrimony. The alternative is to learn to giggle at all silly opinions uttered during the graduation season.

At The THEATER In Cameron

By C. W. GJEDDE

"ROBIN HOOD OF EL DORADO" One Of Year's Best

Warner Baxter will contribute the finest performance of his career in "Robin Hood of Eldorado" at the Cameron Theatre Sunday and Monday, June 7 and 8.

Produced on a spectacular scale, it is a romanticized slice of one of the most glamorous periods of America's frontier history—that era which began in 1848 with the discovery of gold in California.

Possessing much of the epic sweep of such tremendous hits as "The Covered Wagon," "The Big Trail," and other outdoor films that marked the closing days of the silent screen, "Robin Hood of El Dorado" has a dramatic majesty that gives it the aura of importance, while at the same time retaining the intimacy of romance and personal thrills which (Turn to page 10)

Fisher Speaks In Cameron Saturday

Endorsement of State Highway department for its efficiency was expressed by F. W. Fischer, candidate for governor in a speech here, adding if elected he would do everything in his power to keep the organization intact.

Mr. Fischer also said he greatly favored extensive paving of lateral roads "so farmers in widely scattered sections and small communities of the state may have the advantage of the Highway system."

"It is my opinion that the organization built up under the administration of Judge W. R. Ely, former Highway Commissioner, and D. K. Martin and John Wood, present members, is the most efficient in the state government," said Fischer. "The Highway department handles too much of the people's money for it to be converted into a political machine. If I am elected governor, I will do everything in my power to keep that great organization intact."

"Under my program for tax relief for the people of Texas, it is not intended to diminish the Highway fund, but I want the fund increased so the program of the highway commission for the paving of lateral roads can be fully carried out. I will veto any legislation to that effect."

Commenting upon the wide use of Electrolux, Mr. Baldwin said that 60 per cent of all home freezing units sold in New York last year were Electrolux boxes. They are almost universally used in apartments.

Of interest to housewives is the Norge stove and refrigerator, the box an electric and the stove a gas cooker.

T. A. Howell on Big Bend Trip

Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Howell have returned to Cameron from a visit to their son and family, Jay D. Howell in Del Rio.

While in the Big Bend Country Mr. Howell took a number of interesting trips out of Del Rio into the wastes along the Rio Grande river and found many things about which he talks with historic appeal. All along the border where the river makes the historic big bend much has occurred in the last 75 years to make this section a widely talked of part of the nation.

Pictures have been distributed among friends and the Herald editor received a number. Among them a view of the Villa Acuna in Mexico across from Del Rio, showing the international bridge where thousands cross each day into the picturesque little Mexican town.

One of the most interesting and that which attracted Mr. Howell are the scenes that abound with historic interest at Langtry which was the home of the late Judge Roy Bean, law west of the Pecos. On the Mexican side of the river sheer walls almost 200 feet high hold in the waters of the Rio Grande. Eagles build their nests in the crags and crannies of this old bluff. It is at this point that Judge Bean used to send the Bandits across and back into the (Turn to page 7)

"March of Time" At Theatre June 7-8 Tells Rail Story

Across the nation sprawl 25,000 miles of railroad track daily carrying thousands of units of humanity, freight and mail. Complex is the problem of keeping the railroads moving profitably. Despite its rank as No. 3 U. S. Industry with a payroll of one million men, the railroad business today is but one-third as large as it was 12 years ago. For 50 years U. S. Railroads enjoyed the world's greatest private monopoly. Not until 1906, when federal regulations came did the industry's most flagrant abuses stop and only after the war did it take seriously its obligation as a public utility. In the post war boom freight and passenger revenue soared along with railroad equipment as over two million workers joined together in the tightest labor unions in the land. Unseen were storm signals of competition; trucks carrying freight, automobile factories stepping up production, skyways claiming their share of traffic. Finally, undetermined by depression, the railroad giant launched the greatest industrial battle of the century. In Washington, were set up important cooperative agencies to see that the railroads moved forward together. Through many a drastic economy the industry slashed its overhead two billion dollars, used savings to regain lost traffic. In rapid succession came new streamlined trains, good-will campaigns, special services. But greatest step of all in the revival is the adoption of a maximum fare of two cents a mile for coach passengers, three cents without surcharge for Pullman passengers, effective on or before June 2, 1936. Today, as March of Time points out, the deepest hope of every railroad man is that with lower fares and with a new spirit of service, the traveling public may be won back to the rails. March of Time at Cameron Theatre June 7 and 8.

Untaxed of Texas Must Pay Declares Fischer of Tyler

Tyler, Texas, June 2.—F. W. Fischer of Tyler who is running for governor of Texas on the platform of paying old age pensions in full, is spreading his philosophy of taxing natural resources from one end of the state to the other.

"A new source of revenue means a new deal for Texas," he says. He thinks prosperity can be returned through taking the tax off land and putting it on oil, gas, sulphur, etc. This new source of revenue would provide means of helping schools, highways, the agricultural interests and the Texas consumers of gasoline who are now having to pay a tax of 4 cents a gallon.

Fischer, an oil attorney who gained fame as a constitutional lawyer in the legal squabbles over the East Texas oil field, dealt the first death blow to NRA when the United States Supreme Court upheld his contention against section 9 (c) the oil provision of the NRA.

Fischer was born in West Virginia, spent his boyhood riding bronchos in southwestern Oklahoma, and later studied law on his farm. He is a Mason, a Methodist and a member of the American Legion.

Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Wood and son, Bobbie, left Cameron on Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Wood will enter Sul Ross at Alpine on Monday. They will return to Cameron in the fall where Mr. Wood will resume his duties as Coach of the Yoe High School.

An instrumental number was then played by Edward Schiller, Allen Horstmann and Billy Triggs.

Thomas Jefferson White, Valedictorian of the class, delivered the valedictory, taking for his subject: "Chemistry—Its Future." Twice in his school years he has been valedictorian—once when graduating from Ada Henderson School and again on the occasion of his graduation from Yoe High School Monday night. He plans to enter Rice this fall and major in Chemistry.

The band played music and Dr. T. D. Brooks, Dean of the Graduate School at A. & M. College, delivered the Commencement Address. Dr. Brooks brought a message of inspiration to the graduates, taking up many phases of the subject of education. He reviewed the early struggles of the pioneers of America and listed the major safeguards of the liberties of the people, naming the Constitution, the Supreme Court, the Executive, and education, the last of these he said had resulted in the preservation of much that had been won in the cause of American institutions. Dr. Brooks was widely cheered as he spoke words of encouragement and advice to the graduates in closing.

Superintendent Perrin followed with presentation of scholarships. These went to Miss Boedeker and Thoma White, the honor students. J. C. Martin, president of the Cameron School Board, in an address reviewed the accomplishments of Cameron Schools and the board in recent years, pointing with pride to the new buildings, the athletic field and new foundation for the stadium that could be seen beyond the south flood lights rising from the ground and soon to hold the steel bleachers.

Mr. Martin praised Chas. C. Smith, Mayor, and members of the Council for the co-operation that had been given in the work of building up the schools in Cameron.

A Junior College for Cameron and this section was advanced by Mr. Martin as a possible program easily attainable and indicated the Board had already given much thought to the matter. At the conclusion of his address Mr. Martin read the names of the graduates and Mr. Perrin gave them their diplomas of graduation as they filed by the speakers stand.

When this ceremony had been concluded, Rev. Father Tom O'Sullivan, pastor of St. Michael's church in Burlington, delivered an eloquent and impressive benediction.

Frances Cox and his red coated band enacted the last feature of the program with the recessional as the graduates filed slowly from the field amid the applause and admiration of the throng. Thus closed another chapter in the history of Yoe High School and brought officially to an end the 1935-36 term of school and was the completion of four years work by the Seniors who now look to broader fields of learning.

Furneaux Leaves Cameron For Waco And New Position

Joe Furneaux, for several years district manager here for the Community Natural Gas Company, has moved to Waco where he has entered the engineering branch of the service.

Mr. Furneaux is a graduate mechanical engineer from A. & M. College and elected to enter the engineering service of the company rather than remain as district manager in Cameron.

Miss Edwardine Lovick, cashier at the company offices in Cameron, will remain in her place. Miss Cora Barnmore will also remain in the local office, both filling important places in the system here.

Watchdog Too Alert; Balks Fire Fighters

Lakeside, Mo.—C. M. Harr had a good watchdog and no flour mill recently.

Neighbors discovered a fire in his $10,000 mill and went to Harr's house to use the only telephone in this vicinity to call fire fighters from Webb City.

Harr was away from home, and his dog would not let anyone approach the residence. The mill was leveled.

BILL OF RIGHTS BY HUSBAND BIG HELP

Wins 3 Nights Out a Week; Wife Master in Home.

Des Moines.—Fifty years a bachelor, G. E. Balliet never yielded to Dan Cupid until he had consulted his attorneys and preserved his bachelor's rights in a prenuptial contract.

With his bride's signature on an agreement which gave him, among other things, three nights a week out and no questions asked, he was finally married, at fifty, to Miss Marion Spangler, then forty.

Here is what he had to say: "Has my marriage been a success? Listen to this:

"In my few years of married life, I haven't touched the furnace a half-dozen times.

"I have never yet gotten up of a morning that a clean shirt and socks weren't laid out for me. My wife gets breakfast, she does the housework, she doesn't interfere with my business, and I've never given her more than $5 a week for groceries."

To Balliet's way of thinking, it would be pretty difficult to find another wife who could match that record. Consequently, he hasn't taken full advantage of one of the prenuptial agreement's most rigid stipulations—his three nights a week out.

Article three is a catch-all clause making Balliet the complete master of his business and Mrs. Balliet complete master of the home. It reads:

"The high contracting parties and sole signatories hereto agree that the party of the first part (Balliet) shall, without let or hindrance of the party of the second part, regulate, govern, operate and dominate the business of the party of the first part sans the interference or dictation of the party of the second part, and that the party of the second part (Mrs. Balliet) shall, without let or hindrance of the party of the first part, operate, regulate, govern and dominate the home of the parties hereto."

Case Discloses Death Affinity; Balks Science

Toronto, Ont.—Canadian medical circles are baffled over the strange bond of life and death which has linked Samuel Green and his pets for the last 26 years.

Four times Green has been on the verge of death, and each time he has recovered simultaneously with the death of a pet bird or animal. Doctors are at a loss to explain the connection.

In 1911 Green was stricken with a stomach disorder and doctors despaired for his life. Shortly after an emergency operation was performed, his pet canary fell dead in its cage and immediately Green began recovering.

A few years later he suffered a heart attack and a doctor said he would not live 24 hours. During the same day, Green's fox terrier was found dead in the kitchen. Green again recovered.

In 1930 Green was stricken with a strange ailment, which swelled his body, and he lapsed into a coma. His Persian cat died, and he began improving.

Late last year Green fell victim to another strange ailment and he was unable to eat or drink. Doctors could not diagnose the case and he lapsed into semi-consciousness. Then his collie dog was found dead outside his bedroom door. When his son told him about the death of his pet, Green asked for a drink of water and rapidly recovered.

Medical men refuse to comment on the strange case, declaring it is beyond the "scope of science."

$345 Tossed to Monkey Fails to Escape Thugs

New York.—When three gunmen invaded Louis Farraro's home at the height of a party, Farraro tossed a billfold containing $345 to his pet monkey. The monkey grabbed the wallet and leaped for a window, but a bandit caught him.

The monkey bit the bandit's hand, but the bandit hurled him against a wall and he dropped the billfold. The gunmen got $35 in cash and $300 worth of jewels from Farraro's guests, plus Farraro's $345.

The monkey got an extra banana, nonetheless.

ALWAYS GETS HIS MAN, IS CLAIM OF SHERIFF IN TEXAS

Young Peace Officer Solves Sixteen Murders in Last Four Years.

Austin, Texas.—Jess Sweeten, twenty-eight years old and Texas' youngest sheriff, stands on his claim that he always gets his man. The Athens sheriff lists 16 murder cases he has solved in the last four years, but he admits the sixteenth was the most baffling of them all.

This was the brutal slaying in 1932 of a family of four. Their bodies were boiled in a vat and their bones buried in some unknown place. The slain were J. W. McGehee, twenty-five, a farmer; Mrs. Charlie McGehee, twenty-one; Boyle McGehee, four, and Robbie McGehee, two.

Charges were filed against George Patton, fifty-four, gray-bearded farmer, in 1933. Later they were dropped. Then Sweeten took office.

Hard One to Break. "I knew the McGehee case was unsolved," he said, "and it also was a hard one to break. I thought then I knew who slaughtered that family."

A month ago Sweeten had officers arrest Patton and jail him in Tyler, Texas.

"I guess constant hammering did it," Sweeten said. "We kept after him until he gave us his first signed statement. Even then, we didn't have much ground to stand on until we found some bodies."

At another time, "I had been talking to him for half an hour when he suddenly said: 'Sheriff, if you will stick with me, I will tell you the truth.' I told him I would stick with him and he led us to the grave."

Patton, a man of medium height, is held at Palestine, Texas, because of mob action talk.

The ordinarily taciturn farmer showed fear when the car carrying him to his farm where the bones were found passed through a large crowd in Athens. He ducked down on the floor of the machine. Later he went about the business of digging for the bodies as if it was another farm chore.

Sweeten said:

"He had reached a depth of about four feet in the sandy soil when he unearthed a large rock. He remarked: 'That is what the younger child was killed with.' Patton then wanted to quit but we told him to go ahead and dig some more. A portion of a man's trouser leg was found a few inches deeper, then the skull of a child."

Others said the case couldn't be solved, but Sweeten managed to have the suspect dig up the bones himself.

"White Indian" Is Her Lost Son, Mother Says

Seymour, Wis.—The surprising story of how a pioneer mother identified a "white Indian" living on the Onondaga reservation near here as her son 40 years after she lost him when he wandered into the woods was disclosed here recently.

Aaron Denny, the "White Indian," whose real name is Gustave Samp, came with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Samp to settle in early days near Rondeau. Because the boy was unhealthy he was allowed to play alone at home instead of going to school with the other children. One day they missed him and he failed to return. For 40 years he lived among Indians who picked him up and treated him with herbs to cure him of his illness.

He grew up, was married twice to squaws and is the father of nine blond, blue-eyed children. Virtually all of the paleface language he knows was imparted to him by his second wife, who is a school teacher.

Although he never was more than a few miles from his parents, it was nearly a half century since he strayed away from them before a chance remark on the strange resemblance his brother John bore to a "White Indian" led him to seek him on the reservation. Despite Gustave's insistence that his parents were Indians, scars left by childhood wounds on his nose and a finger convinced Mrs. Samp he was her long lost son. Older Indians' memory of his discovery confirmed this.

Samp, or Denny, as he is known, continues to live on the reservation. But four months after his reunion with his parents in 1928 his father died and his mother died in 1931.

Locked in Icebox, Cut Hole With Knife, Get Aid

Springfield, Ill.—A penknife saved two inspectors from any serious effects when they were locked in an icebox in which the temperature dropped to 10 degrees below zero.

John Collins of St. Louis and Roy Klapp of Decatur were inspecting the cooling system of a fish market when the door slammed shut. They were unable to unlatch it.

Using the knife, they cut a hole through two walls and attracted the attention of a passerby. He broke through a window and opened the refrigerator door. Collins and Klapp were in the icebox more than two hours.

THE MERGER OF TWO STRONG INSURANCE ORGANIZATIONS

Since the death of my husband, Jacob Isaac, who died on April 1st, the Board of Directors of the Mutual State Life Insurance Company and I have been considering the best way to protect the future interests of the policy-holders.

We decided it would be best not to make a direct sale but to merge with some Local Company in whose management we could place utmost faith, since this would give us an opportunity to see that our policy-holders were cared for.

On May 14th the Board of Directors unanimously voted to merge with the Temple Mutual Life Insurance Company, effective May 20, a company which we know to be financially sound, and in whose management you will find honesty, experience, and loyalty to the policy-holder.

MRS. OLLIE ISAAC.

Minutes of the Meeting of Mutual State Life Insurance Company's Board of Directors, May 14, 1936.

The Board of Directors of the Mutual State Life Insurance met in the home office of the Company on May 14th at the call of the Secretary-Treasurer, Mrs. Ollie Isaac. Directors present were Mrs. Ollie Isaac, W. F. Blair, J. K. Knight, W. T. Via, and Frank Valenta. W. F. Blair, president of the company, presided at the meeting.

The purpose of the meeting was to approve a contract entered into by Mrs. Ollie Isaac acting as Secretary-Treasurer of the Mutual State Life Insurance Co. and E. T. Knight, acting as Secretary-Treasurer of the Temple Mutual Life Insurance Association to merge the two companies and make them one. The contract stated that the said E. T. Knight would act as Secretary-Treasurer of the merged company and that the said Mrs. Isaac would act as Vice President. The said contract also stated that the present Board of Directors of the Mutual State Life Insurance Co. would remain as Directors of the merged Company if they wished and they all agreed to do so.

The Contract was read by Mr. Blair, and the motion was made by Mr. Via and seconded by Mr. J. K. Knight that the contract be accepted. The vote was unanimous.

There being no further business, the motion was made by Mr. Via and seconded by Mr. J. K. Knight that the meeting be adjourned.

W. F. BLAIR, President

MRS. OLLIE ISAAC, Secretary.

The Mutual State Life Insurance Company, was organized by the late Mr. Jacob Isaac, some two and a half years ago. Mr. Isaac had formerly been connected with an insurance company in Bartlett and while with that company, made a record of which any one would be proud. Knowing Mr. Isaac to be well versed in insurance and capable of building a good company, we felt perfectly safe in merging his new company, known as the Mutual State Life, with ours. By merging these two young associations, it has made the Temple Mutual Life doubly strong and one of the safest in Central Texas.

CHEMISTRY---ITS FUTURE

By THOMAS JEFFERSON WHITE
Valedictorian Class of 1935-36
YOE HIGH SCHOOL

Mr. Chairman, Members of the Faculty, Fellow Classmates, Ladies and Gentlemen:

Knowledge is that unerring estimate by which we measure the progress of mankind. Man's quest for it is as arduous today as when he made his first few simple discoveries, despite the extent to which he has advanced in these climactic days of the 20th Century.

Information is power. Possessing it, man needs little in addition to influence his own and the destinies of those whom he serves. It is to the pleasing prospect of his future accumulation of sustaining knowledge that we address ourselves to-night. We follow in the pathway of others who have labored and left for us indexes to high examples of heroic sacrifices. In deference to those who have so well charted the course, it is fitting that we hereby highly resolve to so apportion our efforts that when we shall have come to the end of our journey, it may be said of us that we wrought well and lived to bless mankind.

With a pardonable degree of speculation as to the future of man's available sources of dependence for a greater equation of enduring economic and humane benefits, it is but natural that we turn to examine some of these possibilities.

Man has evolved many sciences. Among them none seems more destined to shape the course of human kind than that of chemistry. It stands alone among the pursuits which offer solution to the growing industrial and economic problems and to the age old mystery of life.

Chemistry as a definite science was first known among the early Egyptians centuries before the Christian era. The Greeks and the Romans possessed a definite knowledge of chemistry, and evolved many processes of value in the development of the science that were later lost in the decadence and overthrow of their empires. The great decadence came in the dark ages of Europe, and but for the alchemists, who were the only workers who endeavored to discover new substances or processes, the early knowledge would have been lost to the world. It is to the alchemists that we owe the foundations that led to the modern development of chemistry. A new era of experimentation and theory dawned with the life and works of Robert Boyle who lived from 1660 to 1734. The discovery of oxygen by Scheele and Priestly about the time of the American Revolution marked the starting point of the modern science of chemistry.

These chemists worked chiefly in mineral or inorganic chemistry, but a certain amount of work was also being done in the field of organic chemistry, or that dealing with substances produced by living organisms, whether plant or animal. In 1828 a great stride was made in this branch by the first synthesis of an organic compound. Until then it was generally supposed that organic compounds could not be artificially prepared in the laboratory, but Wohler, who lived in the first part of the nineteenth century, prepared a typical compound from inorganic substances. This was the first synthetic organic compound to be prepared in this way. During the middle and latter part of the nineteenth century coal tar furnished some of the most consequential developments in organic chemistry. This is still one of the most amazing phases of this comparatively new branch of the science. And today development along this line is still proceeding at a rapid rate, and it promises to become the most important branch of chemistry in the future.

In brief let us discuss the future of organic chemistry. We could establish no better predicate to this approach than to allude to the age old mystery of life, the question of what the human body is composed. We have been given numerous estimates of the intrinsic value of the human body when reduced to the commercial value of its properties. The properties thus adduced are ranked in worth at less than one dollar, but the nearest synthetic approaches to a reproduction of human tissue are yielding chemicals valued at a thousand dollars a pound.

It is a well known fact that food consists mainly of carbohydrates, fats and proteins. Synthetic fats from petroleum are an accomplished fact, but carbohydrates such as starch and sugar furnish more of a problem. A few years ago Prof. E. C. C. Baly of the University of Liverpool thrilled the world of science with the announcement that he had made them from a gas, a mineral salt, and water. Other starches and sugars followed, and now the synthetic production of these is perfectly feasible.

The stumbling block is protein. What flour is to bread protein is to the body. To date no scientist has succeeded in producing a single protein, but Dr. Max Dunn of the University of California has been experimenting with protein-forming foods to try to break them down into their constituents. What was obtained was amino acids which are near proteins. Experiments upon rodents have shown that one of these acids will sustain life. Now that we have the three necessary parts of food, and if the important element, vitamins, can be added, and there is no reason to believe this impossible, a synthetic meal completely nourishing, may come from the test tube. Still it remains for laboratory workers to duplicate the crowning feat of nature to turn the protein-forming amino acids into proteins of animal and human tissue. Many experiments are being made to determine the exact nature and constituents of these acids, and when these are known, will come the supreme attempt to put them together in products like those of nature.

If someone of these scientists succeed there may follow the most dramatic climax in the history of science. Will the test tube creation be endowed with life? And if so, into what creature might it be fashioned?

Looking to the tube in the hands of scientists the possibilities bid the indulgence of high hopes for extensive benefits from the still sparsely touched field of Chemistry. The challenge is both engaging and potential.

Taking leave of these associations of four years brings to mind and heart a rich heritage of memory. If this be the threshold of great adventure, we must not forget in this hour of personal success the great debt we owe to others.

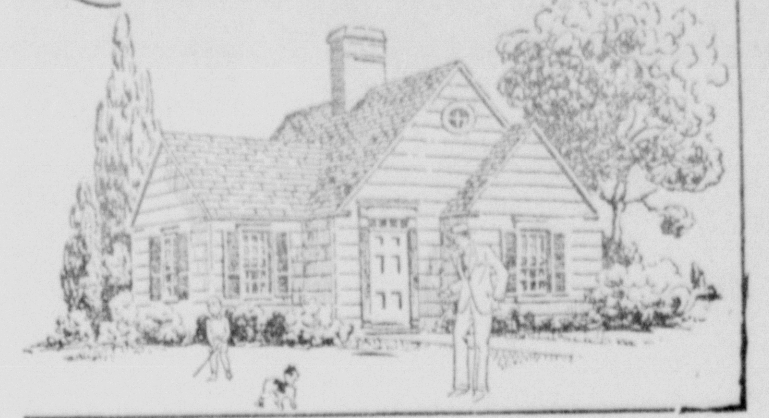

To the members of the able faculty who have guided our destinies in the class room whose patience and understanding have reared a monument high in our affections; to the members of the Board whose wise counsel has provided these educational advantages, we leave the record of our work as a testimonial of appreciation. To this company of graduates who share the honors of this occasion I express the utmost in pride and confidence. As I see them in this last scene of the delightful journey we have known together,

I confidently expect that from their ranks will come a high quota of distinguished men and women who in the years that lie ahead, will find great strength in the lessons we have learned here.

Lovely "Sweetheart of Texas"

To millions of people throughout the nation, who have read with interest the Texas Centennial's booklets describing the beauties of Texas, lovely Janice Jarratt was known simply as the "girl on the cover." But in response to a wide public demand Centennial officials revealed her identity as the San Antonio girl who won fame in New York as America's best loved model and became ranked as one of the world's most beautiful women. Back to Texas she came last week, and in an elaborate ceremony attended by hundreds, Governor James V. Alfred bestowed upon her the official state commission as "Sweetheart of the Texas Centennial." It will be her duty to reign with charm and gracious distinction over many of the scores of Centennial celebrations being held throughout all Texas.

TRIBUTE TO S. BROOKS McLANE

Sunday's Houston Chronicle carried a picture of S. Brooks McLane, president of the Tex-Mex Institution at Kingsville, and a lengthy account of the Institute's work. We print the following concerning Mr. McLane who hails from Cameron, and is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Andrew McLane, and Cameron citizens are indeed glad to know he is making a success of his chosen work.

"Before Tex-Mex reached the adolescent stage its founder advertised for a man. The only man who answered the advertisement was Doctor McLane.

"He qualified and was accepted. When Dr. Skinner died his mantle fell with an Elijah-Elisha replica upon S. Brooks McLane.

"Doctor McLane has been chosen to do things ever since he came to Texas.

Billy C. Duncum Honor Graduate In San Antonio

Friends will be glad to know that Billy C. Duncum, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ike Duncum of New Salem, was one of the sixteen outstanding graduates from a class of 200 that graduated from San Antonio Vocational and Technical School May 25, San Antonio, Texas.

Billy entered this school last September. Aside from his regular curriculum, he was elected as president of his advisory and appointed as a member of the Senior Executive Committee. He was also elected into the Hall of Fame, a portion of their year book, "The Technician," as "Tek's" most handsome.

He was Prince of the House of Esterland at the coronation of King and Queen at "Tech" and was selected to represent his school as "Prince" in the coronation exercises at Westmorland College on May 1.

One picture shows a bandit retreating on his horse through the waters of the big river. At this spot also was fought the now famous Bob Fitzsimmons-Peter Maher bout for the championship of the world. Governor Culberson had sent the Rangers to El Paso to chase the fighters and their training retinue out of that city. The resourceful Judge Bean arranged the details and a ring was built in the bed of the river. Maher was knocked out in the third round and Judge Bean had his fun.

One of the strange facts about the legend of Bean is that he only controlled a small locality in the bend of the river but has been widely celebrated as Law West of the Pecos.

While in Del Rio Mr. Howell met Harvey Hall who is a son-in-law of the late W. H. Dodd of Langtry who succeeded Roy Bean as Law West of the Pecos. The old Bean Saloon will be set up at the Centennial and Mr. Hall will play a part in the reproduction of the Jersey Lilly, so named by Bean for Lily Langtry, actress.

Laxative combination folks know is trustworthy

The confidence thousands of parents have in good, old reliable, powdered Thedford's Black-Draught has prompted them to get the new Syrup of Black-Draught for their children. The grown folks stick to the powdered Black-Draught; the youngsters probably will prefer it when they outgrow their childish love of sweets. Mrs. C. W. Adams, of Murray, Ky., writes: "I have used Thedford's Black-Draught (powder) about thirteen years, taking it for biliousness. Black-Draught acts well and I am always pleased with the results. I wanted a good, reliable laxative for my children. I have found Syrup of Black-Draught to be just that."

Poage

which he said were records, as an evidence of recognition on the part of his fellow members. He pointed to his legislative work in connection with the state assumption of the County and Road District Bonds, and stated that it relieved the people of this District over $4,000,000.00 local taxes.

He called particular attention to his connection with the legislation creating the Brazos River District and pointed out that he was author of every one of the many Brazos River bills passed the last two years, and that the Supreme Court had held these bills to have been correctly drawn. He also condemned the utility companies for their attempt to hamper the Brazos Project and cited his record in connection with the utility regulation. He expressed his approval of the rural electrification program and described it as one of the most beneficial pieces of work that the Federal Government has done.

On the question of pensions he said: "I would favor the payment of as large a measure of assistance to the aged as the Government could reasonably make, without impairment of its solvency or undue inflation of prices. I think this is as far as I could be expected to commit myself, and I am sure it is as far as our thinking citizens want a Congressman to go."

In this connection, he referred to his fight to pass a tax on natural resources to provide funds for the payment of a pension and to relieve property from the ad valorem tax, and to the overlapping of State and Federal taxes, which he said should be corrected.

Poage declared that "the weakest link in our agricultural program is its failure to guarantee to the tenant farmer and to the men and women who actually grow our cotton a fair share in the aid extended by the Government." He said this was no criticism of the President or of his program, which he praised as having saved the farmers and with them the Nation. On the contrary he said it was a criticism of certain large landlords, and he called on the voters to ask the candidates for Congress just what they had personally done in this regard. He answered the question as to himself by stating that he had never taken more than one-half of the government money and had displaced no tenants by reason of the cotton program. He said: "No nation can long endure that ignores agriculture. This nation has ignored it too long." And then he added that no system can solve the agricultural problem of the South that allows a land lord to profit by putting off his tenants and forcing them on relief.

He insisted that the dole should stop and the unemployed should be provided with jobs on substantial and enduring public works. He condemned the rule that one must have been on relief in order to qualify for a Public works job, and said that he considered a man's willingness to work a better test of his need than any report of a case worker. He said the present policy penalized the man who tries to help himself, and summed up his position as being: "Work for all who can work, A living wage for all who do work, Help for all who can't work, and Hell for all who won't work."

Senator Poage concluded by pointing out that he was running on his own merits and not at the request of or as a candidate of any office-holder or office seeker. He said: "If I cannot be elected on my own merits, you had better not elect me, because when I am elected Congressman, I am going to be the Congressman myself."

He recently located Roy Price at Gause and went with the sheriff and deputies to make the arrest. Price escaped jail in Cameron on Wednesday night May 22 with Larry Mitchell and went to the home of relatives at Gause where he was located by Mr. Carter, who notified the office of the sheriff.

JUNE 10TH LAST DAY FOR FARM SIGN UP

Monday June 1 was a busy day in the office of the County Agent, Geo. Banzhaf. Farmers in large numbers were filling out work sheets for the new farm program.

June 10th is the final date for signing up under the new program and all farmers are urged to get their work sheets signed at once.

Those who are unable to get in touch with their local committeeman are requested to go to the office of the County Agent between this date and June 10th.

Duckworth Visits Old Friends Here

Mr. and Mrs. R. N. Duckworth of Dallas, were in Cameron Tuesday on a visit to old friends here. Mr. Duckworth was former educational director and financial secretary of the First Baptist church here.

In Dallas he has become musical director for a large church in Southern Dallas. Many friends here were glad to welcome their return visit.

Mr. Duckworth owns a very old Bible which had been in the safe at the Herald office. He took it to Dallas where he will have it rebound.

Don't blame the quarrelsome, hateful dissident fellow. He may be a yes-man on his vacation.

CAMERON DOCTORS TO HOUSTON CONVENTION

Cameron physicians recently returned from the State Medical Association meeting in Houston. Those who attended were: Dr. W. R. Newton, Dr. A. S. Epperson, Dr. Eduard Rischer, Dr. C. G. Swift and Dr. G. B. Taylor.

Dr. Newton read a paper before the meeting on "Problems Confronting the Public Health Officer." Dr. Newton is County Health Officer of Milam County.

Dr. Swift, secretary for the scientific section of obstetrics and diseases of women for the State Medical Association program to be given at the next convention in Fort Worth in 1937, will soon begin his work.

Dr. Swift will have charge of all arrangements for this program and all papers to be written covering subjects in the scientific division of which he is secretary, will be submitted to him before they are read to the convention.

Another difference is that in the good old days, they called it indecent instead of "thought-provoking."

King Edward's personal physician was on hand at the Kansas City meeting, but neglected to read a paper out of his vast experience on what to do if a horse falls on his patient.

Man violates his conscience very seldom. Usually he picks out the profitable way and then adjusts his conscience to it.

The old method of keeping the stomach fit was to fill it with pork and turnip greens and place it between the plow handles.

make for truly superb entertainment.

With Baxter is a notable cast which includes Ann Loring, a spectacular newcomer who seems destined for stardom; Bruce Cabot in his best sympathetic role to date; Margo, the little Spanish dancing beauty who has become an outstanding dramatic actress and many other of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer lovable stars.

The picture is definitely one of the new season's finest offerings and is recommended without reservation.

PAUL MUNI WILL PORTRAY PASTEUR

Paul Muni comes to the screen of the Cameron Theatre Friday and Saturday June 5 and 6 in what is said to be his greatest film characterization. "The Story of Louis Pasteur."

Muni portrays Louis Pasteur, the great French chemist and bacteriologist who contributes so much to science. The story, by Sheridan Gibney and Pierre Collings, centers about Pasteur's battle against ignorance and prejudice, to save life through sterilization and the use of vaccines against disease.

So bitter against him, and so powerful were the physicians who hated him, that they succeeded in having him banished from France. But Pasteur did not give up his fight against disease. He struggled on in a different part of France and lived to see his work recognized finally and he himself acclaimed.

Josephine Hutchinson plays the part of his faithful wife who shared his exile and aided him in his experimental work. The romantic roles are carried out by Anita Louise, as the daughter of Pasteur, and Donald Woods who portrays one of the few physicians who believed in the great chemist.

Others in the cast include Fritz Leiber, Henry O'Neill, Porter Hall, Raymond Brown, Akim Tamiroff, Halliwell Hobbes, Frank Reicher, Dickie Moore and Walter Kingsford. William Dieterle directed the production.

"THE GARDEN MURDER CASE"

The Friendliest Kind of Banking

—is that which sticks closest to sound banking principles.

SOUND banking protects depositors' money, safeguards stockholders' interests and encourages borrowing customers to enter upon only such undertakings as contain the elements of success. Each one of these considerations is the truest form of friendship a bank can offer.

Sound banking principles permit only safe, profitable operations which return a fair yield on invested capital. They enable the bank to maintain an efficient organization and build up ample reserves and surplus to fortify the protection of depositors' money.

In our next advertisement we shall point out some practices which are not acts of true banking friendship, no matter how pleasantly and courteously performed.

P. Pierce Brooks, Dallas County candidate for Governor, stopped here today for a short visit to confer with friends and supporters, while making a whirlwind speaking tour of this section.

Mr. Brooks is using his novel campaign car, equipped with loud speakers to tell the voters of Texas his proposals to pay pensions to all over 65 years of age and to include all over 60 as soon as funds can be provided; and to give to the automobile owners of Texas a tax free license plate. "I will move immediately when elected to the Governorship of this state, to place the State government upon a good sound business basis," Mr. Brooks said. "I further advocate fair and impartial enforcement of our present laws and to safeguard the lives of our citizens."

"I am making a very active campaign for Governor and plan to speak in every town and city in the state before the first primary. I will stop and greet my friends here every time I pass through your city," Mr. Brooks declared.

Resist Stabs.

London.—Tahra Bey, who intrigued both science and romance by walking unscathed over a live bed of coals in England last summer, who later reposed peacefully on a bed of scythe blades, and submitted to dagger thrusts in throat and chest and a burial of 48 hours, has revealed how he can stand these things—some of them—and still live. Paul Brunton has recorded what the fakir told him in "A Search in Secret Egypt," just published in London.

Mr. Brunton had seen Tahara Bey fall into a trance ending in "catalepsy" so rigid that he would have fallen like a dead man to the floor if his assistants had not caught him in their arms.

Supports Heavy Stone.

Stripped to the waist, he was then supported by the shoulders and ankles on sharpened scythe blades. A rough cube of solid rock granite, weighing a little more than a hundredweight and a half, was placed upon his bare stomach and struck, time after time, with a blacksmith's hammer. The body, remaining as taut and rigid as if made of iron, never yielded under the combination of terrific pressure and weight.

"Eventually," writes Mr. Brunton, "the stone split into two pieces, which fell resoundingly to the floor. Tahara Bey was lifted up, placed on his feet and supported by his two men. Apparently he was quite unconscious of what had happened and had not suffered any pain.

"Doctors examined him with interest and found that the scythe-blade edges had not left the slightest marks upon his skin. Nevertheless, the block of granite had left a strong red mark all over his abdomen."

In an interview later Tahara Bey explained that the two scythes—"though that is hardly the correct term"—which enabled him to perform his feats, were pressure on certain nerve centers of the body and ability to enter into the cataleptic coma.

In Cataleptic Coma.

According to the fakir, after 20 pressure to draw the blood from the brain, certain nerve centers were struck with anesthesia. Cataleptic coma supervened when this pressure—not to be practiced by the untrained—was combined with a "concentration of thought on the state of losing consciousness," and a relaxation of muscles and nerves, followed by a complete swallowing backward of the tongue and a brusque inhalation of air.

"Then," Tahra Bey added, "for about 25 minutes the flesh, automatically, will become totally insensible to pain, no matter how intense, how atrocious the latter might be."

After countless stabs, his body remained unscarred. He explained to Mr. Brunton that, temporarily, he accelerated the circulation of the blood. This in turn, accelerated the heart without over-driving it, and so swift a blood flow helped to heal the wounds with surprising speed.

Tahra Bey's second action was to raise the temperature of the blood to fever heat, so destroying all germs and actually disinfecting the wounds. As a result, the wounds never suppurated and always healed completely within a few minutes, or, at worst, a few hours.

Witch Brings Rain but Is Struck by Lightning

Harrismith, Orange Free State.—A witch doctor who is credited with having "brought" rain to two farms in the Harrismith district was struck dead by the lightning in the storm that followed.

This remarkable story is vouched for by two leading farmers on whose properties the "magic" is said to have occurred.

The natives on the farms collected money to pay an old witch doctor on Mr. Bronn's farm to "make" rain. The old man was away but his son, who had been partially initiated into witch doctor's mysteries, accepted the offer. The money was handed over and the young witch doctor took up his position outside his hut with a wife on either side. Then followed incantations and mystical signs.

Within half an hour, rain fell from a cloudless sky. It was confined to the two farms.

Not enough rain had fallen to satisfy the natives. They collected another subscription, which was offered only on condition that sufficient rain fell next time.

Again the incantations and signs. This time there was so much rain that not only were dams filled in the farms but fences were washed away in the flood.

There was a flash of lightning and the "doctor" was struck dead. The native women beside him were unharmed.

Elephant With Six Tusks

Has One Huge Toothache

London.—An elephant suffering from tooth trouble is the scientific explanation given at Nairobi of the discovery in the Lamu district in Kenya of a unique six-tusked elephant. One tusk is normal, but the other five branches, some one foot and others two feet long and of a few inches diameter, each have a separate nerve cavity. An expert said that no natural dentistry had been observed in the case of elephants and this was a clear case of long-standing toothache.

Mouse and Cat Grow to Be Good Friends

Pittsfield, Mass.—When the cat's away this mouse won't play. Mrs. P. L. Tobey has a pet cat which plays with a pet mouse. The cat picks up the mouse in its mouth, carries it around but never harms it. Sometimes the mouse becomes exhausted from playing with the kitten and takes refuge in a hole or atop a chair, and when rested returns to the play, according to Mrs. Tobey.

DAD TELLS SECRET TO REGAIN HIS SON

Shell-Shocked Vet Reveals Paternity of Child.

South Bend, Ind.—Tears streamed from the eyes of Alles Horning, shell-shocked war veteran, in St. Joseph county court, as he gazed at the five-year-old boy the world had known as his adopted son.

The crowded courtroom tensed while one of the most dramatic and touching scenes in South Bend history reached its unexpected denouement.

Alles Horning was fighting his divorced wife, Mrs. Betty Horning, for custody of blue-eyed, laughing Albert Eugene Horning. She had sought a writ of habeas corpus to take the boy from him.

The veteran had been telling why he should retain the lad in his own home. Suddenly he was shaken with sobs. In a strained voice, he blurted out:

"He is my son—my own son. Do you understand? I am more than his adopted father. I am his natural father!"

Attorneys and even the judge gasped as Horning continued:

"He was born to Mrs. Marjorie Deming in Aurora, Ill., where she registered in a hospital as Mrs. Horning. After the baby was born, her husband, C. W. Deming, also a war veteran, told me:

"That child is yours. You will have to keep him."

Horning said that when he adopted the boy the Demings explained they were giving him away because they already had one child and could not support another.

The fearful plea won at least temporary victory for the father. Judge Bingham said:

"The child would be better off with his father than anyone else. I'll award the father temporary custody."

Horning had taken the boy from the home of Mrs. Horning's mother at Pulaski, Ind., after he and his wife were divorced a few months ago.

Shocking Tale of Mud That Killed Silva Cow

Visalia, Calif.—Here's a shocking story.

A worker on the M. P. Silva ranch in the Liberty district, pitching hay in the barn at evening milking time, was amazed when he saw one of the cows drop dead as she approached the barn. Two cows behind her also fell to the ground.

The hired man sprang down into the corral, catching one of the cows by the tail in an effort to help her up, at the same time hanging onto the corral fence. He received a shock which threw him over the fence.

Mrs. Silva, preparing the evening meal, approached the electric range in the kitchen, only to be hurled back against the drainboard.

A short in a transformer near the barn is believed to have caused mud in the corral to become charged with electricity, and is blamed for the shocking events.

Lad Swallows Toothpick; Gulps His Troubles Away

Newark, N. J.—Fred Mack, sixteen years old, half-way swallowed a toothpick on Newark's busiest corner. A policeman tried to extract it. Two policemen summoned from traffic duty on nearby corners also failed. A half dozen spectators and advisers grew to a half hundred and then 500. A riot squad arrived. An ambulance followed. The physician failed like the policemen. Then Fred gulped, grinned. "It's gone," he said. Doctors are following its progress by X-ray.

Immorality in Apartment Leads Her to Set Fires

Chicago.—Mrs. Isabel Borrell, thirty-eight years old, mother of three children, confessed to Assistant State's Attorney Gordon Nash that she had started several fires in the apartment building where she lives.

"Immorality was going on in one of the apartments," she explained. "I complained to the building owner about it, but nothing was done. I would get to brooding about it and then I would start a fire, call firemen, and warn people out of the building."

Mystery Within Mystery

Elyria, Ohio.—When Elyria high school seniors staged "The Haunted House" their coach, Miss Nina Baker, advanced the mystery element by keeping the cast in ignorance of the solution until the final line of the play.
